

Told Family Safe, AP Writer Weeps

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 5 — (Delayed) — (AP) — Associated Press Correspondent Bill Shinn returned to liberated Seoul tonight and wept with joy when told his wife, son, sister and brothers all are reported safe, saved his wife and child by taking separated from his pregnant wife, Sally, son Johnny and other relatives since June 29 when they fled the South Korean capital ahead of the invading Reds.

He left them for safekeeping in nearby village while he walked to Suwon. When he returned to get them the following morning, they were gone.

During his long separation from them, Shinn continued reporting the allied side of the Korean war.

He scared a memorable news bolt of the Allied amphibious landings at Inchon that turned the whole course of the conflict.

The unaccompanied members of the Republic of Korea's national assembly from Pusan and arrived in Seoul at the dinner hour tonight. Although he had no food since breakfast, he immediately hitchhiked to the remote area of Seoul where he was told his wife and son are living.

Shinn said his brothers probably awoke his wife and child by taking them to a village where they were not known.

Shinn was educated in the United States by money given by American army officers and men he met in the early days of Korea's liberation five years ago.

confession last night:

"The Brannan plan is controversial. It is entitled to be studied, but I am not committed to it and administration is not committed to it."

The vice-president set the tone for his 46-state tour in behalf of Democratic candidates when he declined to discuss Wisconsin's Republican senators, Alexander Wiley and Joseph McCarthy.

Wiley is seeking reelection and McCarthy has made frequent charges of Communist influences in Washington.

"I do not believe it is ethical for the vice-president to come into a state and attack office holders," Borkley said.

"I am presenting the permanent, positive and progressive program of the Democratic party. I believe in letting people decide on the record."

He predicted continued Democratic party control of both houses of congress after the Nov. 7 elections.

Later at a party rally Borkley said the nation faced its greatest period.

"This is not time to change horses in the middle of the stream when you don't know whether you will get another horse," he declared.

Bank Call Issued

Washington, Oct. 6 — (AP) — The controller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Oct. 4.

The federal reserve board issued a similar call for state banks among its members.

The federal deposit insurance corporation, however, said it was not asking condition statements at this time.

DOROTHY DIX

Breaking the Ice

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a boy of 18, going to college away from home. I have a fine father and mother, and a brother of 20. My father has worked hard and has been fairly successful. He has been very good to us, but he has been so busy he has not had time to talk with my brother and myself about our problems. I long to confide in him, but when I try to talk to him I go dumb. Now I want to talk over the girl problem with him. He thinks I am too young to go steady with a girl, and that I should go with lots of girls and have lots of friends. He says that I have plenty of time before I should think seriously about girls. But both my brother and I disagree with him on that point. How can I get close enough to my father to tell him anything I want to?

Answer: I doubt if children ever really get to know their fathers well enough to talk freely with them, unless they begin their acquaintanceship when the are babies. If the father has never chummed up with his boy in childhood, a wall of reserve that neither can break down is built up between them. This is a great misfortune to both, for the father is nearly always more anxious for the boy's confidence than the boy is to give it, but he is as paralyzed when it comes to approaching the boy as the boy is when he tries to make advances to him.

Problem is Widespread: It is literally true that there are thousands of children whose only speaking acquaintance with their fathers consists in asking for something. They have never sat down and had a talk with their father in their lives. They have no idea of what Father thinks about anything on earth. It would amaze them beyond measure if they were told that Father would be pleased to death if they would show him the slightest sign of affection; that they would feel more honored if Johnny and Susie would give him their confidence than he would with an audience with the President. No doubt your father feels this way about you. I urge you to take your courage in both hands and tell him just exactly what you have written me. I'll bet he will meet you more than halfway, and after you have broken the ice, you will find that he is the most understanding person in the world to you.

His advice to you and your brothers about girls is the very best. The roll was called and answered by, "The most refreshing food for a hot day". The minutes were read, the business discussed, and plans made for the food booth at the fair. Reports were given by the following leaders: Mrs. Robert Cash, Poultry Leader, and Mrs. E. C. Calhoun, Home Grounds Leader. An interesting demonstration on the importance of milk in the diet was given by Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, Home Demonstration Agent, in the absence of the food and nutrition leader. Mrs. Howell Good. Mrs. Blackwood also told of ways people of other countries had of shopping for food.

The hostess served sandwiches, cookies, and cold drinks to all present. The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lacie Rowe.

Its advice to you and your brothers about girls is the very best.

Only Miracle Can Save the Phillies

BY JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 6 —<sup>(AP)</sup> Only a miracle can save the Phillies now as the World Series moved into cavernous Yankee Stadium with New York holding a 2-0 edge. One home run hit by the same old Joe DiMaggio put the Phils on this desolate spot.

Not since the 1921 New York Giants was a club won after losing the first two series games. And that was back in the days of the Post-Office series.

Talk of "four straight" buzzes in Yankee ears with the odds on the 13th world title. Some 76,000 fans will be on hand for the Phils' final visit.

Yankee Ed Lopat (8-8) is a 5 to 12 choice over either Ken Heintzelman (6-9) or Bob Miller (11-6) for today's third game at 1 p. m. (EST). Manager Eddie Sawyer will pick his starter in the clubhouse before batting practice.

He miracle — but only a miracle — was needed to rescue the Phils in the first two games when they lost 1-0 and 2-1 in 10 innings on DiMaggio's home run. Now they are fresh out of pitchers like Robin Roberts and Jim Konstanty who can be counted on to chill sluggers like the Yankees.

Sawyer has no complaints about the excellent jobs of his first two pitchers. They contained the Yankee power hitters like Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize. They put the chink in DiMaggio until he rocketed Roberts' pitch into the upper left field seats yesterday afternoon. But this is the end of the line. Now the batters figure to eat loose.

Lopat, a chunky left-hander with a knuckler, screwball, slider and a little bit of everything except a fast ball, may not match Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds in effectiveness. Still, in the vast confines of the stadium, Lopat can be expected to pitch his usual steady, dependable game. To succeed he must continue to check the right-hander power of Del Ennis and Andy Seminick, strangely silent in the early games.

It could be that Sawyer already has made up his mind to pitch Miller but doesn't want the youngster to worry about the job over night. A handsome rookie who made the big hop from Terre Haute, Ind., to the majors in one season, Miller won his first eight starts. His best pitch is a sinking fast ball. Since mid-September, the 24-year-old rookie has been troubled by a sore shoulder. In his last two starts he pitched fine ball in the early innings but weakened badly.

Heintzelman, a grey-thatched southpaw of 31 years, might have the "nothing stuff" to fool the free-swinging Yanks. He didn't win a game from May 8 to Sept. 11 and hung up 17 victories in 1949. If Heintzelman pitches, Manager Casey Stengel probably will shuffle his New York lineup to play Billy Johnson at third base instead of Brown on second. And it soon developed into an earnest contest.

After dinner there was a bridge game and this seemed to be the element of the horse-faced Mr. Winwood. Partnered with his wife, he played against Mrs. Northcott and Gil Summerfield. And it soon developed into an earnest contest.

War End Not to Change Defense Plan

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, Oct. 6 -- (P) -- An early end of the Korean war may make a difference in how the United States deploys its military force but leave unchanged the program for building that force up to a 3,000,000-man strength.

All evidence today pointed to continuation of the rearmament program, including more manpower, even if the shooting in the Far East stops soon. Plans reportedly were under serious consideration to boost the air force up to 95 to 110 groups.

President Truman said last week there must be no let-up in the defense program. High military officials since then have told congress the program was planned before hostilities started in Korea and that the war triggered it.

Moreover, Pentagon spokesmen said today that as far as they knew the calling up of reserves and draftees would go ahead without change, whatever happens in Korea.

But cessation of the Korean war would help solve an especially thorny problem for the army.

Under the Western European defense project the United States is committed to augmenting its forces there. The army has been faced with the dilemma of finding troops for this purpose, while at the same time meeting the heavy demands of the Korean war. It now has only ten divisions, of which six are in Korea and one in Germany.

To date, army thinking has been along the line that a start on augmenting the European force could be made in one of two ways: By sending a national division or they raise questions like this: How long could a guard unit be kept abroad under non-war conditions? What would happen when the service of draftees sent into the unit to build it up to strength expired? Would complaints of discrimination be raised by a state if its guard division was singled out for a long overseas tour of duty?

These same officials thought that perhaps the answer might be the "cadre" division — a nucleus organization which could be filled out with recruits, sent overseas and whipped into combat shape at a training center in Germany.

U.S. Afraid of Guerrilla War in Korea

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 4 -- (P) -- The eventuality in Korea which American officials now fear is the breakdown of the Communist army into guerrilla forces which could fight on for months or even years.

Far more serious, of course, would be the direct intervention of Chinese Communist or Russian troops in North Korea, but Washington authorities do not appear to believe that this will take place.

On the contrary, there is increasing speculation here that the Russians and Red Chinese will encourage the Korean Reds to convert their country into another Greece or Indo-China. That would mean an indefinite delay in bring-

"Yes, Mr. Northcott?"

On deck the following morning, Ede learned from the chattery Mrs. Winwood that Gil Summerfield had gone ashore in the small motorboat that the cruiser carried.

"I'm the kind of a man," he said abruptly, "who usually gets what he wants."

It was not said with any bragadocio. Rather, it was a cold statement of fact. And Ede knew that it prefaced something. She felt herself tensing, involuntarily. But she kept her voice light.

"You sound," she said, "as if I have something that you want."

His colorless eyes stared at her even harder. "You have."

"And what might that be?" Ede asked, in the same light tone.

"An advertising agency," said Northcott quietly.

Ede started. "Perhaps I'm stupid, Mr. Northcott," she said. "But I don't seem to understand."

"I'll make it a little clearer," Northcott smiled again. "You have an advertising agency. I want to buy it."

"Oh!" She strove to keep astonishment from showing on her face. "This is rather surprising, Mr. Northcott. But suppose it isn't for sale?"

He looked up quickly. Lewis Northcott stood there, faintly smiling.

"I've been wanting," he said, dropping into a chair next to hers, "to have a little talk with you."

Ah, Ede thought, being invited on this cruise was not entirely social. And then something — perhaps it was the little smile curling Northcott's lips — warned her of danger.

But she said, encouragingly, ing real peace to the peninsula and a prolonged drain on American military strength.

However, the growing power of South Korean forces, with American training and supplies and supported legally and morally as well as in other ways by the United Nations, probably would make it unnecessary for U. S. troops in large numbers to remain in the fight indefinitely.

The threat of guerrilla war is seen by officials here in several recent developments.

The fact that the North Korean command ignored Gen. Douglas MacArthur's request for surrender last week dashed such hopes as there were that the whole force could be taken as a unit and disarmed by the United Nations.

The Korean Reds have continued to fight fiercely and may well maintain that pattern even if they lose control of key points and major transportation routes which an organized army would require for its operations.

Moreover, the mountainous and relatively primitive country it offers excellent terrain for guerrilla hit-and-run tactics. Besides, guerrilla units presumably would get some support from the population in areas which they dominate.

Another point bearing on the possibility of a development along this line is that the Chinese Reds are wondering why you are willing to pay more than the stock is worth."

Northcott said easily, "A buyer's prerogative, for one thing. For another, you do not wish to sell. Therefore, I have to make you a real inducement. For still a third, you can't get anything good in this world without paying for it and, usually, paying high. It's best to tell you that I have — er — associates."

FOR just a moment Edith Frey was tempted. By pronouncing a word of one syllable, she could rid her life of a lot of annoyance and worry. She could be absolutely free to live as she liked, to go where she would, without strings or anchors. Her lips began to frame the word. But they never uttered it. For, suddenly, she remembered old Cornelius Frey, pale and shrunken, lying in the great four-poster bed. Death on the threshold of the room, but his eyes brilliant, intelligent, implacable as ever. "I built up my business and, dead or alive, I want it to go on. And I want it to stay in my own family."

No, she couldn't do it. She couldn't go against a wish expressed like that, and at such a time. It was too much like — like selling her father out.

"It's a wonderful offer, Mr. Northcott," she said. "A very generous one. But — she shook her head — the answer is no."

He looked at her almost unbelievably. "Are you sure you're being wise, Miss Frey?" he said.

"I'm only doing what I have to do. I'd rather not discuss my reasons."

Northcott had evaded explaining his desire to buy. Why, then, should she explain her refusal to sell? "I suppose, though," she added, "that this will change things a great deal."

"It could," Northcott's eyes were dangerous now. "You refer to the account, of course. Well, I haven't made up my mind yet what I'll do about that." He arose suddenly and leaned over the rail. "I was thinking of something else, Miss Frey."

Probers Seek to Pierce Mobs Secrecy

Chicago, Oct. 6 -- (P) -- A U. S. Senate crime investigating committee sought today to pierce the veil of secrecy surrounding the ramifications of Chicago's criminal activities.

The committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) — after hearing from top law enforcement officials at yesterday's opening session — planned to question a varied assortment of witnesses today.

The committee, however, can't find many of the persons it would like to query about Chicago's crime. Fifty-one persons for whom committee subpoenas have been issued have disappeared. Many of the names on the list are well known in the annals of the old Al Capone gang.

There were several underworld characters at the U. S. courthouse yesterday in answer to summonses to testify. They included two brothers of the late notorious Scarface Al. But none got called. All were told to come back today.

Also ready to testify but not called were lawyers, politicians, accountants and racing news men. They also were ordered to return today.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson was scheduled to be among the first to appear at today's closed hearing before the committee. Kefauver was the only committee member present at yesterday's session. He indicated the closed hearings may continue through Saturday. He indicated the closed hearings may
